K. OF C. CELEBRATES COLUMBUS' BIRTHDAY

Pleas for Greater Tolerance Feature Meeting Addressed by Rev. Abram Simon.

Discovery Day, the occasion being the anniversary of the birth of their patron, Christopher Columbus, was celebrated in the District by the Washington Chapter, Knights of Columbus, in one of the most impressive and important ceremonies ever carried out by the organization.

The significance lay in the fact that the Rev. Abram Simon, of the Elphinstone Temple, delivered an address last night in the Knights of Columbus Hall, before an audience composed of men who have for years favored the extinction of religious bigotry in the United States.

The Message of America to the World, was chosen by Dr. Simon as the subject for his stirring address, in which he exhorted his audience to a greater tolerance and understanding. What we must have is more real religion, more real fraternity.

In the course of his address Dr. Simon said: "I will never apologize for being a Jew, but I am willing to scrap for it any day. Since it was announced that I was to be the speaker before the Knights of Columbus, I have received ten letters of anonymous origin, telling me that I was a Jew. That is but an instance of the narrowness which prevails today."

Leo A. Rover, state deputy for the local chapter of knights, the highest post in the jurisdiction, reviewed the activities and accomplishments of the knights during the past year, declaring his stewardship demanded that he give an accounting.

"We have carried on, he declared, the dead, obtained work for the unemployed, furthered social and athletic activities among the young, and interest in the arts as well."

"But what have the Knights of Columbus, 600,000 strong in the United States and Canada, done for the benefit of mankind?"

Fighting Intolerance. The answer was: "We have attempted to destroy root and branch, from the soil of liberty-loving America the tree of religious prejudice and bigotry. He referred to anti-Catholic movements and declared, when all persons know the truth, there is no bigotry. The bigot for revenue only have been banished. Religious intolerance will be banished."

Simple ceremonies passed the laurel wreath on the Columbus statue yesterday morning in front of the Union Station. A committee from Washington today from short trip to Atlantic City. Mr. Mather spent the greater part of the summer traveling in the West, and since his return has made a number of short visits in the North, including a stay at his home in Darien, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Harlow and their daughter, Miss Catherine Harlow, will return to Washington from their summer home in Bar Harbor at the end of the month. Their residence in Twenty-first street will be opened for the winter next week.

Mrs. Harry Cootes has closed her cottage in Newport and joined her husband, Capt. H. N. Cootes, U. S. A., at their residence in Seventeenth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Perry Lippitt are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter on October 5. The baby is to be named Helen Wilson Lippitt after her mother. This is their second child.

Tompkins-Snyder. The marriage of Miss Vera Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Henry Snyder, to Robert Reed Tompkins was solemnized last evening at the home of the bride's parents, 107 Columbia road.

Mr. Tompkins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henderson J. Tompkins.

The Rev. J. J. Dignan, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, officiated, and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a charming gown of white Spanish lace over satin and tulle. Her veil was arranged with clusters of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Her only attendant, Mrs. George Manning Cummins, of Davenport, Iowa, wore a gown of pink chiffon tulle, with crepe net and silver lace. Thomas Edmunds attended the bridegroom as best man, and the wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Augusta Bergmann, a cousin of the bride.

Following a small reception, the bride and bridegroom left for a wedding trip to the going-away suit being of broadcloth trimmed with beaver, with hat to match. They will reside temporarily at Atlanta, but will later make their home in Washington.

Ground Is Broken for Mississippi Exposition. MOBILE, Oct. 13.—In the presence of Governor Bilbo, and prominent Mississippians, ground was today broken at Gulfport, Miss., for the State's million-dollar centennial exposition. Chief Justice Smith, of the supreme court, turned the first spad.

Miss Dorothy Hodgkin Goes Upon the Stage

Professional Debut of Washington Girl Soprano Follows Close Upon Her First Appearance in Song Recital at the Cairo.

The professional debut of Dorothy Hodgkin, soprano, who is a Washington girl and a niece of Mrs. Wilson Greene, follows close upon her debut in song recital last winter at the Cairo in this city, when she was presented by her teacher, Thomas Evans Greene.

Little Miss Hodgkin is now playing with Julian Elling in a musical comedy, "Cousin Lucy." She will be seen in Washington the week of December 4.

The Times spoke of Miss Hodgkin last winter as "an unexpected surprise," adding: "She has a voice of range that is spontaneous in its freedom, and she possesses both beauty and charm with an excellent equipment for professional work."

Mrs. Elsie Bond Bischoff, formerly of this city, is meeting with great success in the music world of Portland, Ore. She has recently reorganized the Bischoff Choral Club of Portland, which perpetuates the name of Dr. J. W. Bischoff, Washington's foremost pioneer in music. The club is for sight singing and ensemble practice. It plans to give several concerts during the year.

The American Federation of Arts contemplates the bringing of Mrs. Edward MacDowell to Washington this winter in a lecture-recital. This event, as an extension of their music course which this winter will consist of five lecture-recitals by Nicholas Dosty, tenor, and "The Most Modern Songs," means more to the music public than a mere lecture. Mrs. MacDowell, widow of our greatest American composer, Edward MacDowell, comes to tell the story of Peterborough.

At Peterborough, N. H., has come to pass the fruition of a cherished dream of Edward MacDowell—that sensitive to whose closing years of mental blankness were undoubtedly caused by the arduous labors of his earlier life, through which his creative spirit must have suffered much from suppression.

The MacDowell Memorial Colony, with its artists, writers, and composers, and its isolated studios in the woods, and its great outdoor peasant stage, is the realization of this dream of Edward MacDowell—a haven for the creative artist, where he may labor safe from interruption.

MacDowell himself felt that the greater productivity of the last years of his working life was due to the uninterrupted leisure and the stimulating surroundings afforded him by a little cabin—"The Log Cabin"—built among the pines of Peterborough woods. "A house of dreams untold. It looks out over the whispering tree tops. And faces the setting sun."

In the ten years of its life, the colony has demonstrated its permanent value in the artistic work of America. It is no longer an experiment. Its work has not been confined to any one art, but painters, sculptors, poets, playwrights, novelists and composers have been welcomed and have received the stimulus and inspiration of contact with workers along other lines.

In memory of John W. Alexander, Mrs. Alexander and her son are to build and equip a studio and will provide for its maintenance. This noble gift will stand as one monument to the faith which both Mr. and Mrs. Alexander have unflinchingly held in the ideals and work of the association. The Alexander Memorial Studio will be the twentieth studio "in the woods." The others have been gifts of artists who have labored there, or of benefactors of the arts who recognized the value of such an environment.

An endowment fund of less than $10,000 is the only permanent security the association now holds outside of its 600 acres and its many buildings. The membership dues and the small sum of $1 a day paid for board by members of the colony are necessary to carry on the work. Mrs. MacDowell, who is an accomplished pianist and a pupil of Edward MacDowell, is devoting her life to the fulfillment of this trust that was given her by her husband. This autumn inaugurates a campaign for the raising of an adequate endowment fund. For the last five years Mrs. MacDowell has earned, through lecture and recital, enough money to pay half the expenses, but, as she writes, "I may not be able to continue it more than a year or two longer."

The death of Max Heinrich in New York last August takes a prominent place from the list of musicians promised us this season. An editorial in Musical America pays him this tribute: "Max Heinrich is dead and New York's world of music is poorer. He was a master of the piano, a composer, a pianist, and perhaps no other man in his field, the distinguished singer of four decades past, 'Enoch Arden' to the music of Richard Strauss. Richard Strauss himself has said that Max Heinrich 'gives an ideal interpretation of the poem, than which no greater praise can be given.'"

Max Heinrich had extraordinary gifts as an accompanist, and was one of the first artists to play his own accompaniments. He was a master of tradition, and he has left us editions of the three great German lieder composers which he has marked and phrased as they should be sung. They are a priceless treasure.

Max Heinrich's last appearance in Washington was in April, 1914, when he was brought to us by Sydney Lloyd Wrightson in a recital given under the auspices of the Evening Choir of the Church of the Covenant. He was heard in his distinguished field of the "melodrama," reciting Tennyson's poem "Enoch Arden" to the music of Richard Strauss. Richard Strauss himself has said that Max Heinrich "gives an ideal interpretation of the poem, than which no greater praise can be given."
